

To celebrate 80 years of breeding thoroughbreds, Little Avondale Stud has teamed up with iconic local chef Travis Clive-Griffin and taken a fresh look at the fodder their horses eat and completely revamped it for human tastes to create a clever and truly unique dining experience!

A scrumptious five course degustation (that mimics the 'little and often' grazing habit of the thoroughbred) utilising the very best local produce, threaded with the tastiest treats our equine friends love alongside carefully selected Wairarapa wines, in a carefully designed menu.

Back that up with the opportunity to get up close and personal with international stallions and regally bred foals during prime breeding season and learn all you can from the owners dining with you and it makes this the ultimate day out with the NZ thoroughbred.

Thoroughbred racing is often referred to as the Sport of Kings, so we've ensured this menu reflects on the horse but has the owner's palate at forefront. The outcome: world class cuisine fit for Royalty.
